Occupational Health and Safety Policy

Document revision 2024-12-16 11:08

AE Partner cares for health and safety of its employees and anyone else who may be affected by company operations, while meeting quality, environmental and other applicable requirements.

To support and promote good occupational health and safety management practices within the company, AE Partner has implemented the ISO 45001 standard and is guided by the following principles:

► We take responsibility

Comply with occupational health and safety legislation and regulations and implement best practice principles to prevent the occurrence of accidents and occupational diseases in the company.

► We evaluate and prevent risks

Identify, assess and monitor work environment risks. Implement preventive actions to improve safety level at work.

► We are competent and we take care

Promote competence and involvement of employees in occupational health and safety issues by providing necessary information and training.

Always be responsible for health and safety of yourself and the people around you.

► We aim for continuous improvements

Through monitoring and surveillance of the work environment, work actively on continuous improvement of the working environment and information and training of employees to prevent accidents and occupational diseases.

Based on these principles, the company promotes continuous improvement in occupational health and safety and each employee is responsible for the successful implementation of these principles.
